

New Law To Help Blood Disease Victims

Medical care of persons with hemophilia, an uncommon but often fatal blood disease, will be assured under a new California law effective January 1.

Passed by the 1974 legislature, a bill by Senator George Moscone of San Francisco included a $2 million appropriation to the State Department of Health. The department will establish a program to help hemophiliacs with the costs of medical complications resulting from uncontrolled bleeding. An estimated 1,600 hemophiliacs live in California.

The hemophiliac assistance law is one of several dozen health-related legislative actions of 1974 that take effect with the new year. For example:

An Office of Child Abuse Prevention is created in the health department. The law authorizes pilot projects to prevent child abuse by parents and an advisory committee to develop program guidelines. Author of the bill is Los Angeles Senator Mervyn Dymally, the lieutenant governor-elect.

Qualified nurses may be certified as nurse-midwives under a bill written by Senator Anthony Beilenson of Los Angeles. Midwifery has been outlawed in California for many years and the new law will limit the extent to which nurse-midwives may substitute for a medical doctor.

However, the legislation took note of the need for skilled professional help during birth, especially in isolated areas of the state.

Beilenson also obtained approval of a bill to make more available prophylactics and other non-prescription products used in prevention of venereal diseases. Under the new law, these products may be sold in places other than drug stores.

Fifteen and sixteen year old children can donate blood after January 1, if they have consent of parents and a physician, and those 17 or older may do so without parental approval. The bills making such donations possible were introduced by Beilenson and Assemblyman Alister McAlister of San Jose.

Blood donors who have been identified as carrying viral hepatitis will be virtually barred from blood banks by legislation authored by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty of Beverly Hills. The law requires blood banks to test for the infectious disease and to report the identity of carriers to health authorities. A registry of hepatitis carriers will be distributed to blood banks which will not be allowed to receive donations from persons on the list. Paid blood donors who are free of the virus will be required to carry photographic identification.

Other 1974 health bills that will become law in 1975:

Add physical therapy and related services to benefits provided by Medi-Cal, the state's health care program for persons eligible for public assistance.

Abolish a 1975 time limit on the state's radiation control program and set fees that will pay for costs of enforcing the X-ray machine inspection law. Make violation of cancer quackery laws a felony in some circumstances; the offense has been only a misdemeanor.

Require a local health department in counties containing an ethnically mixed population, of which 10 percent of more speak a native language other than English, to make family planning information available in the other languages.

Direct the state to include Filipinos as a separate ethnic category in any statistical tabulation of minority groups.

Strengthen the right of a mental patient to refuse psychosurgery and require written consent of the patient, prior to beginning irreversible forms of treatment.

Create a Seismic Safety Commission that will report annually on steps to reduce earthquake hazards.

Editorial Economics And The Black Man In Business

By Tom Nash

Real Estate is one of the main recipients of funds from the Black man and woman, therefore one would conclude that the black real estate salesmen are "cleaning up". This is not the case. One of the Black Realtors told me that he had not sold a house to a black since being in the City of Seaside. Logically my next question was where are they buying their homes from?

His answer shocked me. He stated that most of the people buying homes were purchasing their homes from white real estate firms that held no blacks employed.

THE PLIGHT OF THE REAL ESTATE SALESMAN

A real estate salesman makes a commission on each home he sells. The commission comes from the seller, not from the buyer. He exists on the 6 percent commission, raises his family, and tries to aid others in the proper procurement of a home. But because of brainwashing we have been receiving, we still will not patronize the black salesman. We feel that it is a cardinal sin to patronize one of our own. But did you stop to think that if every time you walked into a Real Estate office and asked for the black salesman and refused to do business with any other, that in a very short time there would be black salesmen in every real estate office? This means money coming back into the community. This means that instead of 18 percent of the black work force being unemployed, the figure would be down to the national average of all races. This means that the Real Estate Salesman could advertise homes for sale. This means a better, more stable economy and a reduction in crimes.

EMPLOYMENT AND THE BLACK MAN AND WOMAN

It was brought to my attention that the Monterey County District Attorney's office issued a request to Manpower for a legal secretary. One that could type 60 words per minute and take 120 words per minute in shorthand. However, in the request was the following statement: "Due to the sensitivity of the materials in this office a black is not desired."

A large number of cases coming before the D.A. are cases involving blacks. We have the highest crime rate (and we have the highest unemployment rate). These two go hand in hand. But the inference that blacks cannot be around sensitive materials without it leaking back into the community is pure hogwash. There are any number of blacks in far more sensitive work than what appears in a County D.A.' office, and no information has leaked out into the community.

Upon learning of this information, I visited the D.A.'s office in Monterey. There were no blacks employed in that office and only one oriental, yet the County has an affirmative action program which states that no person will be discriminated against because of race. They are receiving Federal Funds based on the conjecture that they have a fair employment practice policy. The community chose to ignore it as another indignity to suffer through. But this is not the case. The failure of employment of any blacks is cutting down the economics coming into that community, and using your tax dollars to do so.

In the matter of employment, if you walk into any business and see that they do not have any blacks, there is a business that is discriminating and cutting down on the amount of economics received in the community. Can you afford to support this kind of business?

SEASIDE LIBRARY AND ECONOMICS

The Economic Development Agency allocated a grant to the City of Seaside to construct a public library with certain stipulations. Among these were that Seaside is an economic deprived community and that the funds allocated were to employ the unemployed and under-employed minorities of Seaside. The grant further stipulated that if THE CONTRACTORS COULD NOT PROCURE PERSONNEL FROM THE UNIONS FROM SEASIDE THAT THE CONTRACTORS WOULD RECRUIT FROM THE COMMUNITY. They have not done this to-date, neither the contractor nor the sub-contractors have personnel (minority) from Seaside. They have personnel from Marina, Salinas and other parts of the county and are convinced that this will satisfy their economic responsibilities to the City. The bad part of this situation is that the black community has accepted, or has shown no interest in the situation.

BLACK CITIZENS, WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO STAND UP AND BE COUNTED?

Continued Next Week.

Major General Robert G. Gard, Jr., Commanding General of Ft. Ord, was presented with a Proclamation by the City of Seaside for his outstanding contributions to the city, at City Council meeting, Thursday night, Dec. 19.

The presentation was made in the Council Chambers with Mayor B.J. Dolan, Jr., presiding. Making the presentation was Vice Mayor Glen Olea, and City Councilman Oscar Lawson, both retired Army personnel.

General Gard will be departing Ft. Ord on or about January 3, 1975 and will be assigned the duties of Commander of the Military Personnel Center in Alexandria, Virginia.

In addition to the proclamation by the City of Seaside, a proclamation signed by the seven Mayors involved were: Mayor Bernard Anderson, Carmel-by-the-Sea; Mayor Charles Benson, Del Rey Oaks; Mayor Peter J. Coniglio, Monterey; Mayor Robert Quinn, Pacific Grove; Mayor Henry Hibino, Salinas; Mayor Phillip Calabrese, San City; and Mayor B.J. Dolan, Jr., Seaside.

Both proclamations not only praised General Gard but cited his wife, Lucy, who "became personally involved in the life of the community through active support and participation in many community programs and events, and aided in an immeasurable and generous way to enhance the spirit of close cooperation between the civilian and military communities."

Expressing a regret in the departure of General and Mrs. Gard, the proclamations stated: "NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT PROCLAIMED, that we wholeheartedly extend our sincere and heartfelt gratitude and appreciation for his genuine friendship to us during his tenure as Commanding General at Fort Ord, and that he will always be fondly remembered as "General Bob".

Motorists Can Save Money On Snow Tires

California motorists planning to either buy studded snow tires, or to add studs to present snow tires could save both money and effort, for studded snow tires may be illegal next year, warns the California State Automobile Association (AAA).

What are studded snow tires? They are regular snow tires with short lengths of metal inserted in the tread to improve traction, particularly on icy surfaces - much like cleats on an athlete's shoes. Other related benefits include both decreased stopping distances and improved steering on icy surfaces.

Studded snow tires were first allowed in California in 1967 when the state vehicle code was amended by the state legislature to permit their use. Because of reservations of traffic engineers, who were concerned about the potential damage to road surfaces, the legislature stipulated that the use of studded tires was to be for a limited time period. An expiration date of May 1, 1975, was set in the amendment. So unless new legislative action is taken by that date, studded snow tires will become illegal.

Studded tires have been the subject of strong nationwide opposition. In many states they are already illegal. The Federal Highway Administration cites such adverse effects as increased pavement wear and rutting in the wheel paths, deterioration of pavement markings, increased stopping distances on wet concrete pavement, and increased traffic noise. The FHWA's research further indicates that standard steel chains are still more still more effective on ice than are studded tires.

Present owners of studded tires need not dismay, however, for the studs can be easily removed with a pair of pliers and a little effort. And if you need extra traction, play it safe and buy conventional snow tires, concludes the California State Automobile Association.

Miss Cal. Teen Ager Pageant The Two Weeks Before Christmas

By Tom Nash

It was two weeks before Xmas in my bed I lay
Making plans to travel on that holiday.
I'd go to Las Vegas and end up in Reno
Making a little money and frolicking in the snow,
I'd dance and make Mary and have a good time
Forgetting about recessions, inflation and crime.

I'd relax and enjoy myself and have a grand ball,
Saying: "Ho Ho Ho, Merry Xmas You'all."
When out on my front porch there rose such a clatter
I jumped out of my bed to see what was the matter,
I charged through the kitchen in my bare feet
Heading for the front door to peer out on the street,
Forgetting, in my haste, that pajamas I wore,
Remembering only that this noise made me sore.
I snatched it open with my fist drawn back
To give this intruder a healthy smack.

When I snatched open the door to my chagrin there stood
Deputy Sheriff Bill Jackson leaning against the wood
With a 357 Magnum in one hand and a subpoena in the other
A big broad grin on his face saying Hi brother
I brought you some greetings and in court you must be Tomorrow, he said, and guess who you'll see?
Judge Harrah, he said, all dressed in black,
And I have a faint feeling you won't be back.

I took the subpoena, slowly shaking my head
Closed the front door and walked back to bed.
I heard him yell as he rode out of sight
Up Dancer, Up Blitzen, or I'll give you my right,
For we have many greetings to deliver on this very night
We've got Ross, and London, Mathis and Pratt, John Perkins, Lou Haddad, what do you think of that,
We've got DeBerry, Cleve Williams, Mayor Dolan to see,
We've got Clint Porter, Harvey Hinton and Theron Polite
And evil Willie Adams and I hope he tries to fight.
We must arrest Bob Smith for every crime in the book,
But primary for reckless eyeballing with intent to look.
He called other names but was too far away
For me to understand what he did say.
I did hear him mention the names of Ace Hill,
Steve, the Tonic Room, they must be footing the bill.
What did I do, to my self Did I say,
Oh well, it's been a hell of a day.
I might as well forget about sleep I thought with tright.
I might as well make it a Blast of a night.
I reached for my clothes and began to dress,
Saying to myself this is a hell of a mess.
I took five rolls of pennies I had stashed away,
Saving them for a cold rainy day.

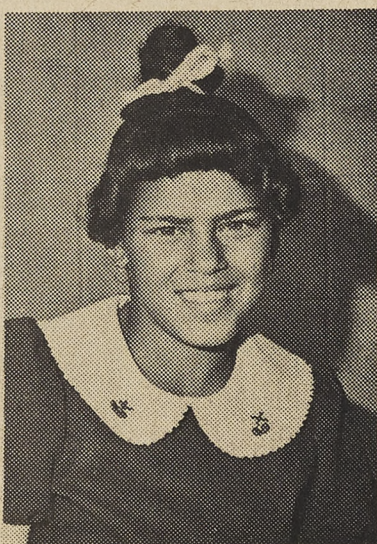

Jumped in my car, the battery was dead,
And had two flat tires, took a taxi instead.
To the nearest bar did I make my way
Give me a scotch, I'm going to pay.
With this drink I will drown my sorrow
And hope against hope for a better tomorrow.
The first person that opens his big mouth to say
Merry Xmas, on his back will he lay.

Californians Should Focus On State And Local Budgets

SACRAMENTO--- In the past 15 years the largest growth in personal income in California has occurred in state and local government, the California Taxpayers' Association said today.

"At a time when inflation is the nation's major problem, government spending is a key contributor," Kirk West, executive vice president of Cal-Tax, said. "The disproportionate growth of earnings in state and local government indicates Californians should not leave the entire burden of inflation fighting to the federal government but should apply their attention to budgets of state and local government. Not only have these increased budgets added to the inflationary spiral, they also increase the burden upon the other segments of the economy which are becoming increasingly hard-hit by recession. Easing of the tax burdens on the state's private sector would be a side benefit of reducing the state and local government budgets."

On a ratio basis the growth can be seen clearly. In 1958 when total government earnings were $5.1 billion with $2.5 of that in federal and $2.6 in state and local earnings, the total income of the private sector was $23.7. The ratio between state and local to private sector was about $1 per $9.11. By 1973 the earnings of the private sector had grown to $66.9 billion and government earnings to $18.2, with $6.7 of that federal and $11.5 state and local. The earning ratio had switched to $1 per $5.73.

Based on data provided by the Bureau of Economic Analysis of the United States Department of Commerce, the growth in personal income for employees of state and local government was 337 per cent from 1958 to 1973 as compared with the growth of 183 per cent in the state's private sector.

Federal employment earnings in 1958 were about the same as that of state and local government combined, but in the intervening 15 years the growth rate of state and local government has been almost double that of the federal government. In the four years from 1970 to 1973 federal earnings have shown the smallest increase in any four year period going back to 1958.

The largest increase in the private sector, 254 per cent, occurred in the services category in the same 15 years. That category includes the professional, social and personal service categories. The second largest growth in earnings, 202 per cent, occurred in the finance, insurance and real estate group.

The least growth in the private sector, 92 per cent, occurred in the mining category, which includes the petroleum and natural gas production industry.

Mott stressed that there are many applicants for each job opening and urged persons interested in applying, to apply early, preferably before February 1, 1975.

Rangel Appointed To Ways And Means

Congressman Charles B. Rangel (D-N.Y.) the two-term Representative from Harlem who succeeded the late Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. was recently selected by the Democratic Steering Committee of the House for a seat on the House Ways and Means Committee, thus becoming the first Black in the history of the United States Congress to be selected for the prestigious Committee.

Rangel, who represents the Harlem, East Harlem and upper west side communities of New York City was selected by the New York Democratic Congressional delegation in a meeting last week as the delegation's choice for a seat on the expanded Ways and Means Committee. He also had the support of the seventeen member Congressional Black Caucus, of which he is Chairman, and the House leadership.

"I am pleased," Rangel said, "at my selection to serve on the Ways and Means Committee. This important Committee, although its jurisdiction has been reduced by the Committee Reform Amendments of 1974, maintains its jurisdiction over legislative areas vital to the interests of my constituency in New York and the larger constituency of the poor, minorities and other disadvantaged groups throughout the nation which we in the Congressional Black Caucus attempt to represent.

295,005 Claims For Unemployment Insurance Benefits

California's Employment Development Department reports a total of 295,005 claims for unemployment insurance benefits were received in the week ending November 29. This was a 4-day week because of the Thanksgiving holiday, so total claims were down compared with the previous week's total of 305,496 -- but sharply up from the same week a year ago, when the total was 235,754.

First claims totaled 50,732 compared with 61,639 in the previous week and 38,976 a year ago.

These were claims under the regular unemployment insurance program, which pays benefits ranging from $25 to $90 weekly for up to 26 weeks, depending on the claimant's past wages.

In addition, under an extended benefit program providing 50 percent more payments (up to 13 weeks), another 43,614 claims were processed, including 3,831 first claims. This compares with 45,085 claims in the previous week, including 4,341 first claims. (The extended-benefit program was not in effect in the same week last year).

The combined total of claims in the week reported amounted to 338,619, compared with 350,881 in the previous week and 235,754 a year ago. (However, a year ago, the extended benefit program was not in effect). Of California's total work force of 9,101,800 (employed and unemployed), the number of workers covered by the unemployment insurance program is approximately 6,740,000. They make no contribution to the insurance from federal funds).

The fund balance at the end of the year is estimated to be $1,135.7 million. The average weekly benefit amount is $65. The maximum benefit payment is $90 weekly, paid to a claimant whose average weekly wage was $211 or more. If the worker is still unemployed and still available for work after regular benefits are exhausted, the weekly payments can continue for up to another 13 weeks under present law.

Legislation adding another 13 weeks of benefits, providing a maximum benefit period of 52 weeks, has passed the House and has been sent to the Senate for approval.

Substantiation Requested Of Computerized Horoscopes Firm

A Canton, Ohio, firm selling computerized horoscopes has failed to substantiate advertising claims as directed by the California Department of Consumer Affairs.

Director Patricia Gayman stated "the case has been referred to the Attorney General and formal action is pending against Consumer Publishing Company, Inc., dba American Astrological Association, 4965 West Tuscarawas, Canton, Ohio."

The Department had requested Consumer Publishing Company to substantiate their advertisement claiming "A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer". The ad appeared in the Oakland Tribune on June 23, Parade Magazine on June 19, and the San Francisco Examiner on October 13.

The advertisement which purports to be based on factual, clinical or objective evidence, remains unsubstantiated as of October 31, 1974.

Director Gayman said "under the Consumer Affairs Act, the Department is responsible for protecting the consumer from false and misleading advertising. As a matter of marketplace fairness the consumer is entitled to rely upon the advertiser to have a 'reasonable basis' for making product claims prior to those claims being advertised. Price is a very important factor in purchasing decisions and price comparison advertising must be done in such a way that it cannot be misunderstood by consumers."

New Bill Would Create Permanent Dept. Of Housing

Senator Nicholas C. Petris (D-Oakland) recently introduced legislation to allow the State's Department of Housing and Community Development a permanent existence in state government.

The bill would also allow the department to carry on such housing assistance programs as may be authorized by the Legislature.

The department, located in the Business and Transportation Agency, was created by legislation adopted in 1965, following a recommendation of Governor Brown's Advisory Commission on Housing. However, the Legislature prohibited it from engaging in direct loan or grant programs and provided for termination of the Department in 1969.

In 1968 and 1971 the Department's life was extended, but without additional legislation it would terminate on January 30, 1977.

"This department has been hobbled long enough," Senator Petris said, "and we are no nearer to positive programs to meet housing needs than we were when Governor Reagan took office. The prohibition on carrying out loan and grant programs is like a mortgage burdening the department and restricting its activities."

The Select Committee on Housing and Urban Affairs, of which Senator Petris is Chairman, held hearings one year ago on an Administration proposal which would have abolished the Department of Housing and Community Development.

Minority Good Drivers Eligible For Summer Jobs

Minority group members who have a valid driver's license, a good driving record and are able to meet the public well may be eligible for seasonal employment next summer in the California State Park System according to an announcement today by State Parks Director William Penn Mott, Jr.

Seasonal Employment involves primarily park cleanup and repair, public contact at entry stations, and lifeguarding, Mott said. A civil service examination is not required, he added, but lifeguard candidates must pass a rigorous swimming test.

Because housing is not normally available in parks, residents living near park units are preferred, Mott pointed out. He also noted that whenever possible, preference is given to students working to complete their education.

The pay rate for maintenance aid is $2.20 per hour; for park aid, it is $3.01 per hour; and for lifeguard, $4.23 per hour.

Maintenance and park aid jobs are available throughout the state, while most of the lifeguarding jobs are at southern California beaches.

Mott stressed that there are many applicants for each job opening and urged persons interested in applying, to apply early, preferably before February 1, 1975.

State Controller Flournoy Reports On Budget Cut

SACRAMENTO -- Total budget requirements of California counties for 1974-75 are less than one-half of one percent greater than in 1973-74, principally because 17 counties are operating on smaller budgets this year than last, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported today.

"Reductions by 17 counties resulted in a statewide county budget total of $6.483 billion which is $30.7 million or .48 of one percent greater than the prior year," Flournoy said in summarizing his Annual Report of Budget Requirements and Means of Financing Adopted by California Counties.

"This seems particularly noteworthy in a period of continuing and growing inflation," Flournoy said. "It is a considerable contrast to the 10.53 percent growth which occurred when every county budget increased between 1972-73 and 1973-74."

Flournoy's report -- which is confined to county budget requirements and does not reflect the budgets of cities, schools and special districts -- shows reductions by the counties of Colusa, Inyo, Kings, Lake, Los Angeles, Madera, Mariposa, Merced, Napa, Riverside, Sacramento, San Bernardino, San Joaquin, Santa Barbara, Solano, Stanislaus, and Yuba.

Monterey County showed an increase of $4,846,120 amounting to 7.59 percent. (Select appropriate figures from the attached table.) The greatest percentage of increases was 31.67 percent in Trinity County, and sharpest reduction was 12.26 percent in Lake County.

"While State and Federal subventions and shared revenues continue to meet a major portion of their budget requirements, the counties this year are relying more heavily on their property tax revenues than they did last year," Flournoy said.

Property tax levies for 1974-75 total $2.01 billion and account for 31 percent of the budget requirements of 57 counties (combined city-county figures for San Francisco excluded). The 1973-74 tax levies of $1.789 billion accounted for only 27.7 percent of the total budgets.

There were increased property tax levies in 52 counties, and 45 counties showed a higher degree of reliance on property tax revenues than they did last year.

Trinity County showed least reliance on property taxes which make up only 18.93 percent of its budgets needs. Marin County reported that property taxes make up 38.70 percent of its revenues, the highest percentage among the counties.

Monterey County's property tax levy is $22,245,174 as compared to $17,091,931 last year, and accounts for 32.40 percent of the 1974-75 budget in contrast to 26.78 percent in 1973-74.

State Allows Continued Use Of Some Schools

The State Allocations Board give the Board of Education permission to continue using San Francisco school buildings that do meet state earthquake standards during the 1975-76 school year.

It also gave the board permission to continue using some non-conforming leased facilities, Associate Superintendent Milton Reiterman reported.

Reiterman and LeRoy Cannon, the school board's attorney had spent the earlier part of the day in Sacramento convincing the Allocations officials they needed the extra sites while some schools are closed for reconstruction.

Without approval of the state officials, a building that did not meet the rigid state standards could not have been used after June 30, 1975.

The district has 33 elementary schools that do not comply with safety standards. Reiterman now plans to keep students in nine of them at their present schools next

Grants Available for Community Groups

Applications for 1975 Human Development grant funds for groups and organizations engaged in self-help efforts are now being accepted by the Campaign for Human Development. In this West Bay Area there are two funds available, the national and the local.

The national fund will consider proposals requesting grants of no less than $10,000 and no more than $100,000. The local fund with more limited resources will only be able to consider grants under $6,000.

Fifty percent of those benefiting from the project must be from a definable poverty group and the members of the poverty group must have the dominant voice in the self-help project.

High priority for funding will be:

1. Promising, innovative projects which demonstrate a change from traditional approaches to poverty by attacking the basic causes of the poverty and by effecting institutional change.
2. Projects which directly benefit a larger number of people rather than a few individuals.

3. Projects which generate cooperation among and within diverse groups in the interest of a more integrated and mutually understanding society.
4. Projects which indicate and document that as a result of CHD funding, there are short-range possibilities of generating funds from other sources or becoming self-supporting within the time lines established in the proposal.

Low priority for funding will be:

1. Projects which have been operating for several years on funds from other funding agencies.

NOTICE OF FILING APPLICATION FOR INCREASES IN INTRASTATE TELEPHONE RATES

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company on September 30, 1974 files with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California an application (No. 55214) and an amended application on December 13, 1974 for authority to increase certain intrastate rates and charges applicable to telephone service furnished within the State of California.

The proposed rate increases will permit Pacific to offset increases in wage, salary and associated expenses.

The Public Utilities Commission has consolidated this application with an investigation into the rates, tolls, rules, charges, operation, costs, separations, inter-company settlements, contracts, service and facilities of California telephone corporations.

In general terms, the proposed rate changes are as follows:

No changes would be made in basic monthly exchange service rates.

Service connection charges would increase for new and additional service, moves of customer's telephone sets, certain changes of customer's sets and key telephone system services, and in place connection charges. The charge for initial connection of a residence telephone would be increased from $24.00 to $30.00; the business charge would increase from $35.00 to $45.00. The charge for a customer-initiated charge in telephone number would increase from $5.00 to $10.00 for a residence telephone, and from $10.00 to $15.00 for a business telephone.

Charges for line extension and service connection facilities in suburban areas would be charged to reduce the free footage allowance and to base charges for excess footage on a percentage of cost instead of a flat rate per foot.

For intrastate message toll service, increases are proposed in operator handled station, and person rates. The operator station-to-station and person-to-person rates. The operator

For intrastate message toll service, increases are proposed in operator handled station and person rates. The operator station-to-station and person-to-person elements of the message toll schedule would be increased to that a constant increment of $.45 for station-to-station messages and $.10 for person-to-person messages would apply at all mileage rate steps between those elements of the schedule and the day direct distance dialing element of the schedule on a three minute basis. A separate coin toll rate schedule would be established at a level higher than the dial rate. The three minute initial period in the day period direct distance dialing portion of the toll schedule would be reduced to a one minute initial period. The toll schedule would be improved, such as reducing rates for Saturday direct distance dialing element of the schedule on a three minute basis. A separate coin toll rate schedule would be established at a level higher than the dial rate. The three minute initial period in the day period direct distance dialing portion of the toll schedule would be reduced to a one minute initial period. The toll schedule would be improved, such as reducing rates for Saturday direct distance dialing calls, and establishing a differential over night rates by increasing evening direct distance dialing rates for calls covering distances less than 51 miles.

The 15 per cent surcharge for Private Branch Exchange Service would be eliminated. The PBX rates would be restructured to eliminate Dial Series 100 and 300 PBX Service package rates, and individual rates for service components would be substituted.

Residence extensions would be increased from $1.00 to $1.25 per month.

"OUCH!" ONE Calling Service would be restructured to replace existing rates with separate rates for business and residence lines and stations. PBX trunks, stations and most PBX service systems.

Some key equipment in station charges would be increased.

The Wide Area telephone Service installation charge per access line would increase from $10.00 to $50.00.

Certain miscellaneous and supplemental equipment in station charges and certain private line supplemental equipment installation charges and certain private line sup

Certain miscellaneous and supplemental equipment in station charges and certain private line supplemental equipment installation charges would be increased.

The rates proposed in the application are estimated to produce additional annual gross revenue of $97,900,000.

Notice of hearings on the application will be published not less than five nor more than thirty days prior to the initial hearing.

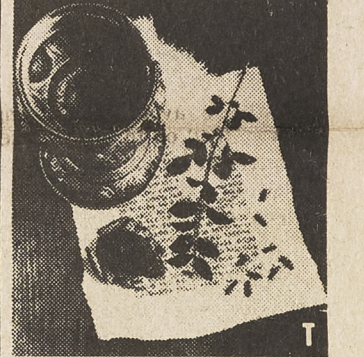

The Company's proposed rates would become effective in various California counties and municipal corporations, including the County of Monterey and the Cities of Seaside & San City, upon grant of authority therefor by the California Public Utilities Commission.

A copy of the application may be inspected by any interested person in the office of The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company at 787 Munras Avenue, Monterey, California, and in the offices of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California, Fifth Floor, State Building, Civic Center, San Francisco, California, and State Office Building, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles, California.

ALFRED NOT SO GREAT WHEN PLAYING DOCTOR

The bees, the frog and the barberry tree leaves in this picture have something

In common: King Alfred the Great advised these strange things for birth control. He told women they could prevent pregnancy by eating bees; spitting three times in a frog's mouth, or holding a solution of barberry leaves to their heads. That was about 700 years back. It's now just ten years since ORTHO-NOVUM, the leading brand of contraceptive tablets, first became available. They're a lot easier method of birth control - and considerably more reliable, too.

CEDC'S Pit Stop For Winners

USACDEC, Ft. Ord, Calif. (December 18, 1974) — The sleek, powerful race car stays in the groove around the hair pin turn and then heads into the pit area for a scheduled stop. Behind the retaining wall, expert mechanics await the four-wheel missile's arrival. The machine is scarcely stopped before the pit crew moves in. Within seconds they fill the fuel tank, change all four tires, clean the spattered windshield and get the driver back in the race. Such total team effort is the price of championship.

The same kind of consolidated team effort occurs every day at Hunter Liggett Military Reservation (HLMR), field laboratory of the US Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command (CDEC), where getting the checkered flag for winning a race isn't the goal but maintaining vehicles and equipment in support of Army-directed experiments is crucial.

During scheduled breaks between trial phases, tank drivers move their vehicles to a specially constructed "Pit stop" area near the experiment site. As each tank stops, a specialized team of four experts from CDEC's

Armor Co. "C" climbs aboard to perform specific inspection and routine maintenance tasks. One soldier checks the tracks and suspension system, another inspects the hull or body, the third man checks the turret and another is responsible for the engine. Performing what is called daily first echelon preventive maintenance, the pit crew replaces the large air cleaner on the carburetion system and may add oil or battery water and adjust the track tension. Within minutes the tank is ready to return to the field.

"We have all our tools and equipment centrally located," explains Second Lieutenant Wayne Killian. "C" Co.

maintenance officer. "We use a production line technique for the fastest and most efficient utilization of our resources, whether manpower or equipment."

"With this program," adds Second Lieutenant Charles Donnell of the same unit, "all the tanks can have their routine maintenance completed and be ready to move on the next assignment in a much shorter time than if each tank crew did its own work."

Such pit stops usually occur twice a day, during the noon break and again at the end of the day's trials. Occasionally the maintenance team discovers a potential problem that can't be corrected quickly on the spot. A warning light may indicate a system isn't working correctly. There may be an oil leak that must be stopped. A worn or broken part may require an entire component unit to be repaired or replaced.

When that happens the tank is tagged and goes to CDEC's

Maintenance Co. field shop for repairs. "We can replace virtually any part on a tank," explains Captain Viktor Maykowsky, Maintenance Co. commander. "We may even drop the entire engine or transmission and put in a new one. Whatever is required to get the tank rolling again."

Just as the race driver is dependent upon his pit crew to insure top performance from the car on the track, CDEC owes much of its success in field laboratory experiments to the efficient and professional services being performed daily by maintenance crews. CDEC's mission will not be lost "for the want of a nail."
